STORIES THAT MATTER

“ From the very first day Sydney came to Harbor House, we knew it was a special place. The love, support, and sense of inclusion we felt here meant so much to us that we both eventually decided to join the team ourselves. Harbor House will always hold a special place in my heart because of the connections with the participants and the way everyone is welcomed and valued. It truly feels like a home away from home. ”

– Shannon Willman

“ Dekale, a Harbor House participant, has worked hard to overcome communication challenges that once made it difficult for others to understand him. After joining therapy services, he made steady progress. One morning, he clearly said, “Good morning, Taylor”—a simple moment that showed how far he had come. His growth highlights the impact of Harbor House’s Intergenerational Life Center. ”

– Harbor House staff member

“ Evan struggled in school and often resisted going, leaving mornings difficult for his family. After discovering Harbor House, everything changed. From his first trial day, he felt happy and included. Soon, he was waking up early on his own, excited to go. Harbor House helped Evan rediscover his confidence, joy, and sense of belonging. ”
